GOOD WEATHER AND A FULL VOTE

a very heavy vote is being polled early. In most places the voters are still standing in line at 10 o'clock. In Indianapolis the early vote is unprecedentedly large.

Heavy Vote in West Virginia.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 8.—Threatening rain, but a heavy vote is being cast. The democrats are better supplied with money than the republicans and will get out their full vote.

New York Is Doubtful.

New York, Nov. 8.—Both sides claim the state this morning, the republicans apparently with the most confidence. To unbiased observation it looks as if the state will be close, with the result in doubt. The betting is two to one in favor of Roosevelt. The same odds favor Herrick.

Governor Odell has admitted the republican state ticket will run 30,000 to 40,000 behind the national ticket. This probably accounts for the confidence of Herrick. The odds on the general result are five to one on Roosevelt. It is estimated that $3,000,000 is wagered in this city.

Trouble in West Virginia.

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 8.—The democrats have filled the jail and lockup with men whom the republicans claim are legal voters and fighting may result.

Heavy Vote at Salt Lake.

Salt Lake, Nov. 8.—The heaviest attendance at the opening of the polls in the history of the state. Bets at slight odds are that Roosevelt will carry Utah and even money the American party will not elect a single candidate. The weather is fine.

Scratching in Utah.

Salt Lake, Nov. 8.—Advices from outside points indicate that by noon 35 per cent of the vote will be cast. It is estimated that 60 per cent will be scratched ballots, as the Mormon and Gentile line is strongly drawn.

Big Vote at Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—With the sky deeply overcast, but accompanied by an ideal temperature, voting began at 6 this morning. Indications point to a big vote. The polls close at 4.

Early Vote at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—Weather is cloudy and cool. The polls opened at 6. A good sized vote was cast early. By 9 the weather cleared and heavy voting continued. Folk this morning is claimed to carry the state outside of St. Louis, by $5,000.

Heavy Woman Vote.

Cheyenne, Nov. 8.—The weather is perfect and a large vote is being polled in Wyoming early. Probably the heaviest vote in the history of the state. The women are taking an exceptional interest and are voting early. Republican victory is indicated.

Parker Third in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 8.—The weather is fine. The rural vote will be heavy. State is conceded to Roosevelt by a plurality over Watson of 30,000. Parker is likely to be third in the race.

Rain in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 8.—A light rain is falling in Southern Wisconsin. The democrats regard this as favorable to them.

Heavy Voting in Denver.

Denver, Nov. 8.—The weather is cool and voting heavy. The action of the supreme court in appointing watchers in Denver, Las Animas and other counties, has had a salutary effect for order.

Bright and Clear at Sioux Falls.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 8.—Bright and clear with indications of a full vote.

Heavy Vote in Michigan.

Detroit, Nov. 8.—A heavy vote is being polled throughout Michigan. The weather is clear. The democrats claim governor, but admit Roosevelt will carry the state.

Two Democrats Killed.

Denver, Nov. 8.—At Goldfield Deputy Sheriff James Warford shot and killed Constables Miller and Lebold, who were attempting to eject voters from the polling places. The dead men were union miners and democrats.

California Has Clear Weather.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—Fair weather throughout the state. Indications point to a heavy vote. In San Francisco balloting is early.

Many Indiana Arrests.

There was trouble at over 100 polling places in the state this afternoon. Alleged attempts at illegal voting were followed by many arrests.

Disfranchised Californians.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—In Fresno is intense excitement created by the discovery that several books of registration affidavits have been lost or stolen. Hundreds of registered democrats have been deprived of their votes. Knots of wildly excited men are gathering on the street corners. The county clerk's office is besieged by great crowds of disfranchised voters. Serious trouble is feared before night.

Scratching in Iowa.

Des Moines, Nov. 8.—Reports from all the important cities in the state up to 10 indicate a record-breaking vote. The prediction is the vote will exceed that of four years ago by 20,000. The socialists and prohibitionists are polling an increased vote. Roosevelt will lead the state ticket and have easily 100,000 plurality. Parker is being scratched by the Bryan democrats.

Light Voting at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Nov. 8.—Early voting is light. The day opened with a fog, but the weather cleared.

Heavy Voting at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Nov. 8.—Cloudy and cool. Heavy early voting is reported from Pittsburg and Allegheny.

IN THE NORTHWEST.

Indications and Facts From the Three States.

Seattle, Nov. 8.—The weather in the Puget Sound country is threatening. The indications are that very few straight tickets will be voted in the state. A large force of deputy sheriffs has been sworn in on account of fraudulent registration.

Clear Day in Idaho.

Boise, Nov. 8.—Election day opened bright throughout the state, which indicates that a heavy vote will be polled. In some precincts in the mountainous districts voters have to travel 50 miles and it will be late before any intelligent forecast can be made.

Eastern Oregon Clear.

Portland, Nov. 8.—The weather reports show a clear day in Eastern Oregon, but cloudy with occasional showers in Western Oregon. The voting started light here.

Heavy Vote in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Nov. 8.—A heavy vote is being cast in Minnesota and the weather is fair. Roosevelt will carry the state by 75,000. Dunn, republican, will be elected governor.

Heavy Vote in Seattle.

Seattle, Nov. 8.—The heaviest vote in the history of the state was cast in over 60 precincts by noon. Both gubernatorial candidates, Mead, republican, and Turner, democratic, claim they will win by from 10,000 to 15,000.

Fifty Extra Policemen.

Seattle, Nov. 8.—Wholesale illegal registration led to the detail of 50 extra policemen for precinct duty this morning and several arrests. Early voting is unusually heavy throughout the Northwest.

Oregon Is Apathetic.

Portland, Nov. 8.—Reports from this morning's voting over nearly the entire state show a decidedly light vote and great apathy, due to the foregone conclusion of an insurmountable republican majority.

Twenty-one counties where prohibition is the issue are showing more interest. No disturbances anywhere.

Voting Slow in Portland.

Portland, Nov. 8.—Although 25,000 voters registered in Portland up to noon, not half this number had voted. In Southern Oregon counties reports from many places show minor clashes at the polls where prohibition is the main issue. No votes, however, are being given to Swallow.

Full Vote in Boise.

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 8.—The election in Boise is passing off quietly, both parties getting out a full vote early. Owing to the remoteness of precincts in the mountainous districts no reports from the state have been received.

LOST 1000 FOWLS

TRAINS PLAY HAVOC WITH SNYDER'S TURKEYS.

His Home Being Close to the Track His Chickens and Turkeys Take a Delight in Trying to Outrun Freight Trains—The Result is That They Are Slaughtered by Wholesale—Mr. Snyder Has Moved Back From the Track and Hopes to Save Some of Them.

It is estimated by railroad men running on the O. R. & N. between La Grande and Umatilla, that at least 1000 turkeys and chickens belonging to Joe Snyder, the well known farmer living two miles west of this city, have been killed by trains in the past five years.

Mr. Snyder has lived close beside the track, and has always prided himself on the large number of turkeys, chickens and geese that adorned his fences at night, and his barnyards in the daytime, and perhaps not one freight train in 20 passes the house that does not run over and kill from one to a dozen fowls.

The turkeys, especially, take a delight in lining up on the track before a freight train, and trying to see how far they can outrun the train before being run over and ground into sausage.

Every autumn the Thanksgiving flock is reduced about one-half by this means, and still Mr. Snyder is not discouraged. It is impossible for trains to stop for the birds, and the birds never learn that it is folly to fool with a freight train, and so the slaughter goes on.

The editor of the East Oregonian, while running a freight engine on the O. R. & N. two years ago, slew nine of Mr. Snyder's big gobblers at one "fell swoop" just a few days before Thanksgiving. The gobblers prepared for a fast race, and as the train came around the curve, about a dozen of them started down the track, one behind the other, and refused to swerve aside or fly the track, until the nine of them had been sacrificed to their Shot 23 Geese.

James Klotz, of the Walla Walla police department, and Alvin Malone were in Pendleton this morning on their way home from a shooting trip in the Arlington country. They were out a week and bagged 23 geese. "We would have stayed another week," said Mr. Klotz, "but we wanted to get back home to vote. The weather has been most too nice for goose hunting. The birds are a little too wild."
